

BRITISH JOURNAL OF SPORTS MEDICINE

The British Journal of Sports Medicine is an international peer review journal covering the latest advances in clinical practice and research of sport and exercise medicine.

The Journal covers all aspects of sports medicine, including the management of sports injury, exercise physiology, physiotherapy and the epidemiology of exercise and health.

Broad international reach

Every issue of the British Journal of Sports Medicine includes:

- Editorials by recognised international experts
- Regular reviews of current topics
- Peer reviewed academic papers
- Evidence-based updates
- Short reports
- Sporting miscellany

Occasional theme issues (e.g. injury prevention) and educational supplements enrich the journal's contribution to sport and exercise medicine.

All this information makes this journal essential reading for clinicians, scientists and physiotherapists around the world.

See your work published in the British Journal of Sports Medicine

- Impact Factor: 1.259 (19th out of 71 in Sports Sciences)
- Rapid decisions
- Rapid publication (Online First)
- Worldwide Readership
- Online submission and peer review

Click the 'Online Submissions' button on the British Journal of Sports Medicine homepage to submit a paper.

Great online features and functionality

The British Journal of Sports Medicine website contains all the content from the print version as well as valuable online features that take advantage of the latest technology.

Find content quickly – Sophisticated searching, subject collections, email alerting, RSS feeds and full text links from cited references are all available on the site.

Interactive services – Personal folders, citation trackers, electronic letters, education and more.

Online First – Most articles are published online shortly after they are accepted and well before they are published in print.

Online submission and peer review – Our simple and secure online submission service provides a faster peer review process and 24 hour access to information on your paper's status.

Find out more – Our 'click guide' details all the outstanding features of the British Journal of Sports Medicine website. Download a copy from the journal homepage.

BASEM

The official journal of the British Association of Sport and Exercise Medicine

www.bjsportmed.com